

THANKFUL THURSDAY

TRISH ARTHUR: IT'S A PATIENT RELATIONSHIP

This #ThankfulThursday the staff here at Ebenezer would like to show our appreciation to Trish Arthur! Trish came to Ebenezer 15 years ago and has dedicated her time to ensuring every patient's needs are met. Trish started as a pharmacy tech, but was later moved to the front desk because of her cheerful demeanor and love for patient interaction. She knows every patient by name, knows about their personal lives, and truly forms a bond with each person who comes through our doors. When asked what makes her job worthwhile, Trish responded, "I love everything about Ebenezer. It's a rewarding and validating job that gives me hope for the future. We also give our patients hope because most times we are their only option." Trish is thankful to work for an organization that is community based and community served. While discussing the clinic, she was beaming with love and gratitude! It is clear her love for the clinic runs deep.

It's a rewarding and validating job that gives me hope for the future.

TRISH ARTHUR

Trish is proud of Ebenezer and what we do here for others. She is passionate about Ebenezer's mission to help others and provide access to care for whoever needs it. She explained, "We don't discriminate, we try not to say no, and we will always help our patients." Whether it be in office help or referring patients out, we get the job done. Our patients absolutely adore Trish and when she's off, everyone asks "where's Trish?" When asked about the future, Trish hopes to get the word out and assist more patients. She has described the clinic as the "best kept secret" in town that desperately needs let out. She also hopes we can expand to offer more services for our patients to access. We couldn't agree more, Trish! Thank you for your 15 years of dedication to the clinic, we are beyond thankful for everything you do!
